NET PROFIT OF $500.

Amount Made by County Jail Prisoners Since the Law Went Into Effect.

Montpelier, Sept. 18.—The prisoners in Washington county, since the new law went into effect, have netted the state by labor $213.93 up to the first of September. During the month of August the total earnings were $337.50, and the expenses $132.17, making a net profit of $205.33, which is the best record thus far. The first prisoner went to work in this county under the provisions of the new law, in March, but nothing to amount to anything was saved from the prison labor up to the first of June. Since the first the total earnings have been $916.40 and the expenses $403.37. This makes the net profit $513.03 practically for the months of June, July and August. Judge L. R. Wells, chairman of the prison board, settled with Sheriff Tracy on Monday evening for August.

This amount that has been earned for the state doesn't represent the total amount earned, for since the inauguration of the honor system whereby an honest man can get a small amount for himself by doing good work, a considerable amount has been paid the prisoners themselves.

PRINCESS ELOPES AGAIN.

The Ex-Crown Princess of Saxony in London.

London, Sept. 18.—All Europe is much shocked at the appearance in one of the most fashionable hotels here of Countess Montignoso, ex-crown princess of Saxony, and Sig. Tonselli, a pianist, who have come here with the avowed intention of being married within two weeks if their plans are not interrupted by a score of German agents from the royal court, who are now looking for them.

This latest escapade of the royal princess has set court circles talking as never before. Countess Montignoso, formerly Princess Louise of Saxony, has startled Europe several times, but never in so sensational a way as her present affair in London.

It was nearly a week ago that the Countess and Tonselli appeared at the hotel and asked for an apartment. They were unaccompanied by servants and their luggage was limited. Although they signed as count and countess, their appearance bore out Tonselli's statements that they were modest Italian tourists. Their incognito was so complete that their true positions were not known until yesterday.

EXPERIMENT FATAL.

Dr. Carroll Used Himself in Yellow Fever Test.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 18.—Dr. James Carroll, curator of the Army Medical Museum, died in Washington Monday afternoon from a peculiar affliction of the heart, which he suffered while experimenting with yellow fever germs in Cuba. Dr. Carroll was associated with Major Walter Reed, an army surgeon, in the study of yellow fever bacilli from 1897 to 1902. Dr. Carroll submitted to the bite of an infected mosquito which had previously bitten three persons with well marked cases of yellow fever.

Four days later Dr. Carroll was taken ill with a severe attack of the fever. He recovered ultimately, but with impaired health. His case was the first of experimental yellow fever on record, and it demonstrated to the medical world that yellow fever bacilli were spread by mosquitoes.

Dr. Carroll was born in England in 1854, and was graduated in medicine from the university of Maryland, and the Johns Hopkins medical school. He had been professor of bacteriology and clinical microscopy at the Army Medical school.

TAFT STRONG ON TEST VOTE

In Middle States Leads All Candidates

CHOICE OF 46 PER CENT

Of Recognized Republicans—Good Number of Votes Cast for Hughes—Runs Very Well for Second and Third Choice.

Chicago, Sept. 18.—Containing its Republican presidential canvass, the Tribune publishes the results of questions asked prominent Republicans in each of the middle eastern states, and, as everywhere else, Secretary of War Taft is far in the lead of all other candidates. Out of 433 ballots received from "recognized Republicans" of Pennsylvania, Maryland, West Virginia, Delaware and New Jersey, Taft has 210, or more than forty-six per cent. Hughes had only forty-six, seemingly a small proportion, until one understands the situation in Pennsylvania. There is where Senator Knox is a local candidate. Senator Knox receives 130 ballots for first choice, as compared to 74 for Taft and only 10 for Hughes in Pennsylvania. But the real situation is shown by the fact that in the same state Taft had 84 indications for second choice and 27 for third, while Hughes was mentioned for second choice on 44 ballots and for third choice on 61.

It is a peculiarity of the situation in all these middle states, as well as in Pennsylvania, that Gov. Hughes has manifested much less strength than in Ohio or New England, so far as first choice is concerned, but he is manifestly in the minds of the people, because in spite of the local predominance of Knox adherents in Pennsylvania Mr. Hughes has been favorably mentioned for first, second or third choice on 252 out of 433 ballots in the middle eastern states, showing that over fifty-five per cent of all those available to had Hughes in mind as a possible candidate for president on the Republican ticket. This is even more true of Taft, for in spite of the predominance of Knox adherents in Pennsylvania, the Secretary of War had 372 mentions out of 433 ballots returned from that section of the country. In view of the influence of the local candidate, therefore, the tendency of the people to coalesce about Taft and Hughes is scarcely any less marked in that section than elsewhere.

Cannon and Fairbanks are mentioned rarely for first place, and only at intervals for second and third. The Vice President polled twenty-one votes for first choice to fourteen for Cannon, while the Speaker of the House led on the total number of times he was mentioned as one of the three leading candidates, so that honors were evenly between the two. President Roosevelt is the choice of eighty-eight. Root for fourteen, Cortelyou for seven, Foraker for four and La Follette for three. Elkins of West Virginia is mentioned by three; that of Indiana by three. Hanly of Indiana by two; Stokes of New Jersey by two, and Gray of Delaware, and Griggs of New Jersey by one each. President Roosevelt's policies are overwhelmingly indorsed, as in the previous canvass.

GORKY MARRIED TO MME. ANDREIVA

Russian Novelist and The Woman Who Visited Gotham With Him Call on Pastor.

New York, Sept. 18.—Harold McGrath, the author, who has just returned from Europe, announces the marriage of Maxim Gorky, the novelist, to Mme. Andreiva, his companion during his recent American tour.

When Gorky arrived in America in 1906 his success here as a socialist leader was greatly hindered because of the refusal to accept Mme. Andreiva as his wife. Gorky had been living with her as his wife in Europe for four years, having left his former wife for her. Many of his admirers in New York repudiated Gorky's liberal views.

He and the woman were first obliged to leave his hotel because of indignant protests of other persons living there. At the time Gorky declared that, inasmuch as he accepted the woman as his wife, he could not understand why others should question that which concerned only himself and the woman.

$236,000 LOST ON A TRAIN BY A WOMAN.

Fortune Vanishes—The Cars Are Being Searched and Big Reward for the Return of the Money Offered.

Boston, Sept. 18.—Detectives are scouring the length of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for a small tin box containing $196,000 in cash and $40,000 worth of jewels which was either lost or stolen from a middle-aged woman on her way from Larchmont to New York on a New Haven train, whose identity has so far remained a mystery. Anyone who will deliver up the box which contains a fortune will receive the snug reward of $10,000 or $15,000, or even more if they should hold off on the delivery of the precious tin box.

That the tin box was found and taken to Boston is the latest clue the detectives have unearthed in New York, and interest in finding the riches has been transferred to this city.

The property was lost while its owner was a passenger Monday on a local passenger train from Stamford, Conn., to New York, which arrived at Grand Central station at 10 a. m.

This advertisement in the lost and found column of a New York paper attracted attention to the loss.

LOST—Small black tin box, on New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad, train at 10 a. m., Sept. 16; $10,000 reward for its return with contents; no questions. R. F. N., room 806, 215 Montague street, Brooklyn.

WILLS WEALTH TO DIVORCED WIFE OF HIS SON

Captain Potter Leaves Her $80,000, and the Terms Are Such That Her Children Will Come Into $3,000,000.

New York, Sept. 18.—A will bequeathing $80,000 to the woman who divorced his son has been placed on file by the attorneys of the estate of Capt. Mark Louis Potter in the Kings county surrogate's office. In addition to this unusual bequest, the terms of the will are so arranged that in all probability the entire estate, valued at $3,000,000, will ultimately go to the divorced wife's children.

Captain Potter was once a member of the firm of Lamt Bros., commission merchants. He is related to the Potters of Massachusetts and Rhode Island. After retiring many years ago he invested most of his money in mining lands, and was successful.

His family consists of his wife, Mrs. Mary Potter, a daughter, Mrs. Mary Louise Potter Rush, and a son, Winfield S. Potter. The latter was divorced from his first wife and on June 8 last was remarried to Miss Mary Butler in Brooklyn. His son's action was a source of deep disappointment to Captain Potter, who held decided opinions upon the subject of divorce.

Among other peculiarities, the captain had a mania for making wills, and his last testament was one of many, dictated by him to Miss Mary Mahoney, the trained nurse, who attended him in his last illness, and was witnessed by her and a maid servant.

The will provides that his wife shall receive $222,000 in trust, the principal to descend upon her death to the testator's grandchildren. To his son, Captain Potter leaves the income of $100,000, the principal to remain untouched and descend after his death to the testator's grandchildren. Under other provisions of the will the estate remains practically intact to descend to the second generation, which at present is represented only by the children of Mrs. Francis R. Potter, his son's divorced wife.

A few days ago he seemed to lapse involuntarily into the character of Hyde which now apparently had complete control of him. He was taken yesterday to the insane hospital at Richmond.

STANDARD OIL ON THE RACK

Suit That May Result in Its Dissolution

WITNESSES MADE DIVULGE

The Control of the Subsidiary Companies Is Shown—The Standard Oil of Indiana Is One of These.

New York, Sept. 18.—That the Standard Oil trust of New Jersey concealed profits of nearly $56,000,000 in one year was the startling charge made by Attorney Kellogg for the government yesterday in the suit of the United States to smash the oil combine.

Examiner Ferris testified that in 1899 the gross assets of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey were $200,791,623.85, and the total profits were $34,420,314.21.

Kellogg challenged this, and said he would prove this statement to be an error, and that the profits should have been recorded as nearly $80,000,000. Commodore E. C. Benedict, millionaire yachtman and banker, and Charles M. Pratt, secretary and a director of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, proved defendant witnesses yesterday when they took the stand to testify in the federal suit to dissolve the Standard Oil company of New Jersey.

Their answers were reluctantly given, and at times the clashes between the government lawyers and the trust attorneys were bitter.

Despite the fusillade of questions, both oil chiefs professed great ignorance of the inside workings of the trust.

Benedict said he first went into the oil business to protect his gas interests in Indianapolis, and sold his oil stock for $889,342.

After this sale, the Standard Oil company furnished the gas oil for his gas business. He denied he ever had any negotiations with any representatives of the Standard or subsidiary company in connection with the sale and had no agreement whatever regarding the continuation of contracts between the Manhattan Oil company and his gas company. Brady, he said, was now in France.

Charles M. Pratt, secretary and a director of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, had been an officer of the company since 1899 and been with the trust in various capacities since he signed an agreement with it in 1882.

Kellogg showed Pratt a list of securities owned by the Standard Oil September 14, 1907, which was prepared in response to a subpoena, but witness claimed he was not familiar with it and could not say that it was correct inasmuch as it was prepared by the comptroller.

BAGGAGE STOLEN, WORTH THOUSANDS

Wholesale Raid by Thieves at Cunard Pier in New York—Labels Remarkable, Junk Dealers Involved.

New York, Sept. 18.—Thousands of dollars' worth of baggage have been stolen in the last three months from Cunard line steamship pier 51, North river, the police say, the plan of the thieves being to change the owners' labels and to substitute for them labels bearing the names of junk dealers. The Jersey City and local police have now made three arrests which they declare beat on the case.

James Balston of Jersey City, storekeeper on the pier, is locked up here, charged with the larceny of a bundle of wearing apparel valued at $250. The complainant is Harnus Ravn of Brooklyn, who alleges that the goods were taken from the pier. The Jersey City police have under arrest Max Kahn and Isaac Schaeffer, proprietors of a junk shop, on the charge that they had in their place goods taken from the pier.
